Tips offered on how to prepare for a disaster

by Spencer Rees

If Oscar the Grouch can do it, so can you. Oscar, the grumpy Sesame Street character, lives in a garbage can. And while you don't need to take up residence in one, living out of a garbage can could save your life in a disaster. However, the garbage can has to be one you've stocked carefully with emergency supplies.

Admittedly, not everyone will experience earthquakes, floods, fires hurricanes, tornadoes or flat tires in his lifetime. But if you do, will you be ready?

Statisticians are gloomy about survival odds under disastrous conditions, but the worst part of a disaster may not be the event itself. Often the aftermath takes the largest toll on life and health. It's the lack of preparation--a lack of food, clean water, heat, light, first-aid equipment, trained medical help--not the disaster itself, that often kills.

At a general conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, church members were instructed to include among their recommended year's supply of food, clothing, fuel and emergency supplies for two weeks. And a good place to store it, they were told, is in a garbage can.

A sufficient stash of food, medical supplies, flashlights, blankets and other necessities can be unobtrusively stored in a clean garbage can in a corner, in a garage or under a table. If disaster strikes, you're prepared. Just grab the garbage can and head for shelter.

If a can would be too heavy, use a backpack for the same purpose. Have it packed and ready to go, conveniently stored where it's accessible. Or if you have a car, consider keeping part of your trunk stocked with emergency supplies. This is a wise idea for times other than disasters too. If you have a flat tire or a suddenly dead engine in an isolated place, your emergency supplies might help.

Under some conditions, however, relying solely on a cache in your car won't help unless your trunk storage is packaged in an easily carried form. You couldn't take much with you if you had to carry heavy cans and bulky sweaters in your arms. But a backpack makes it simpler.

Your emergency supply should include several essentials. Consider water purification tablets, candles, matches, a filled canteen, a flashlight, batteries, warm clothing, a first-aid kit, a transistor radio, needed medication, an area map, food and--if you have canned food--a can opener.

You might also include a poncho or other protection against rain, first-aid instructions, a list of emergency aid locations in your community, basic tools, flares and a sleeping bag.

Probably the heaviest item on the list is food. Light freeze-dried foods that need only moisture and cooking are available, although they can be expensive. Avoid carrying food in glass containers. Store foods that are not easily perishable and are high in calories and nutrients. Also include vitamin tablets.

Once you've organized an emergency stash, spend an afternoon with your family or close friends discussing what steps to follow. Choosing a central meeting place in case of disaster will save you anxiety and worry. It's also wise to instruct family members in turning off gas, water and electricity sources. This can help protect your home from the backlash effects that often accompany disasters.

You may never experience a disaster that will pit your life against your preparation and ingenuity. But if you do, this simple supply might save your life.

Free cancer screening offered at Grossmont Hospital September 22

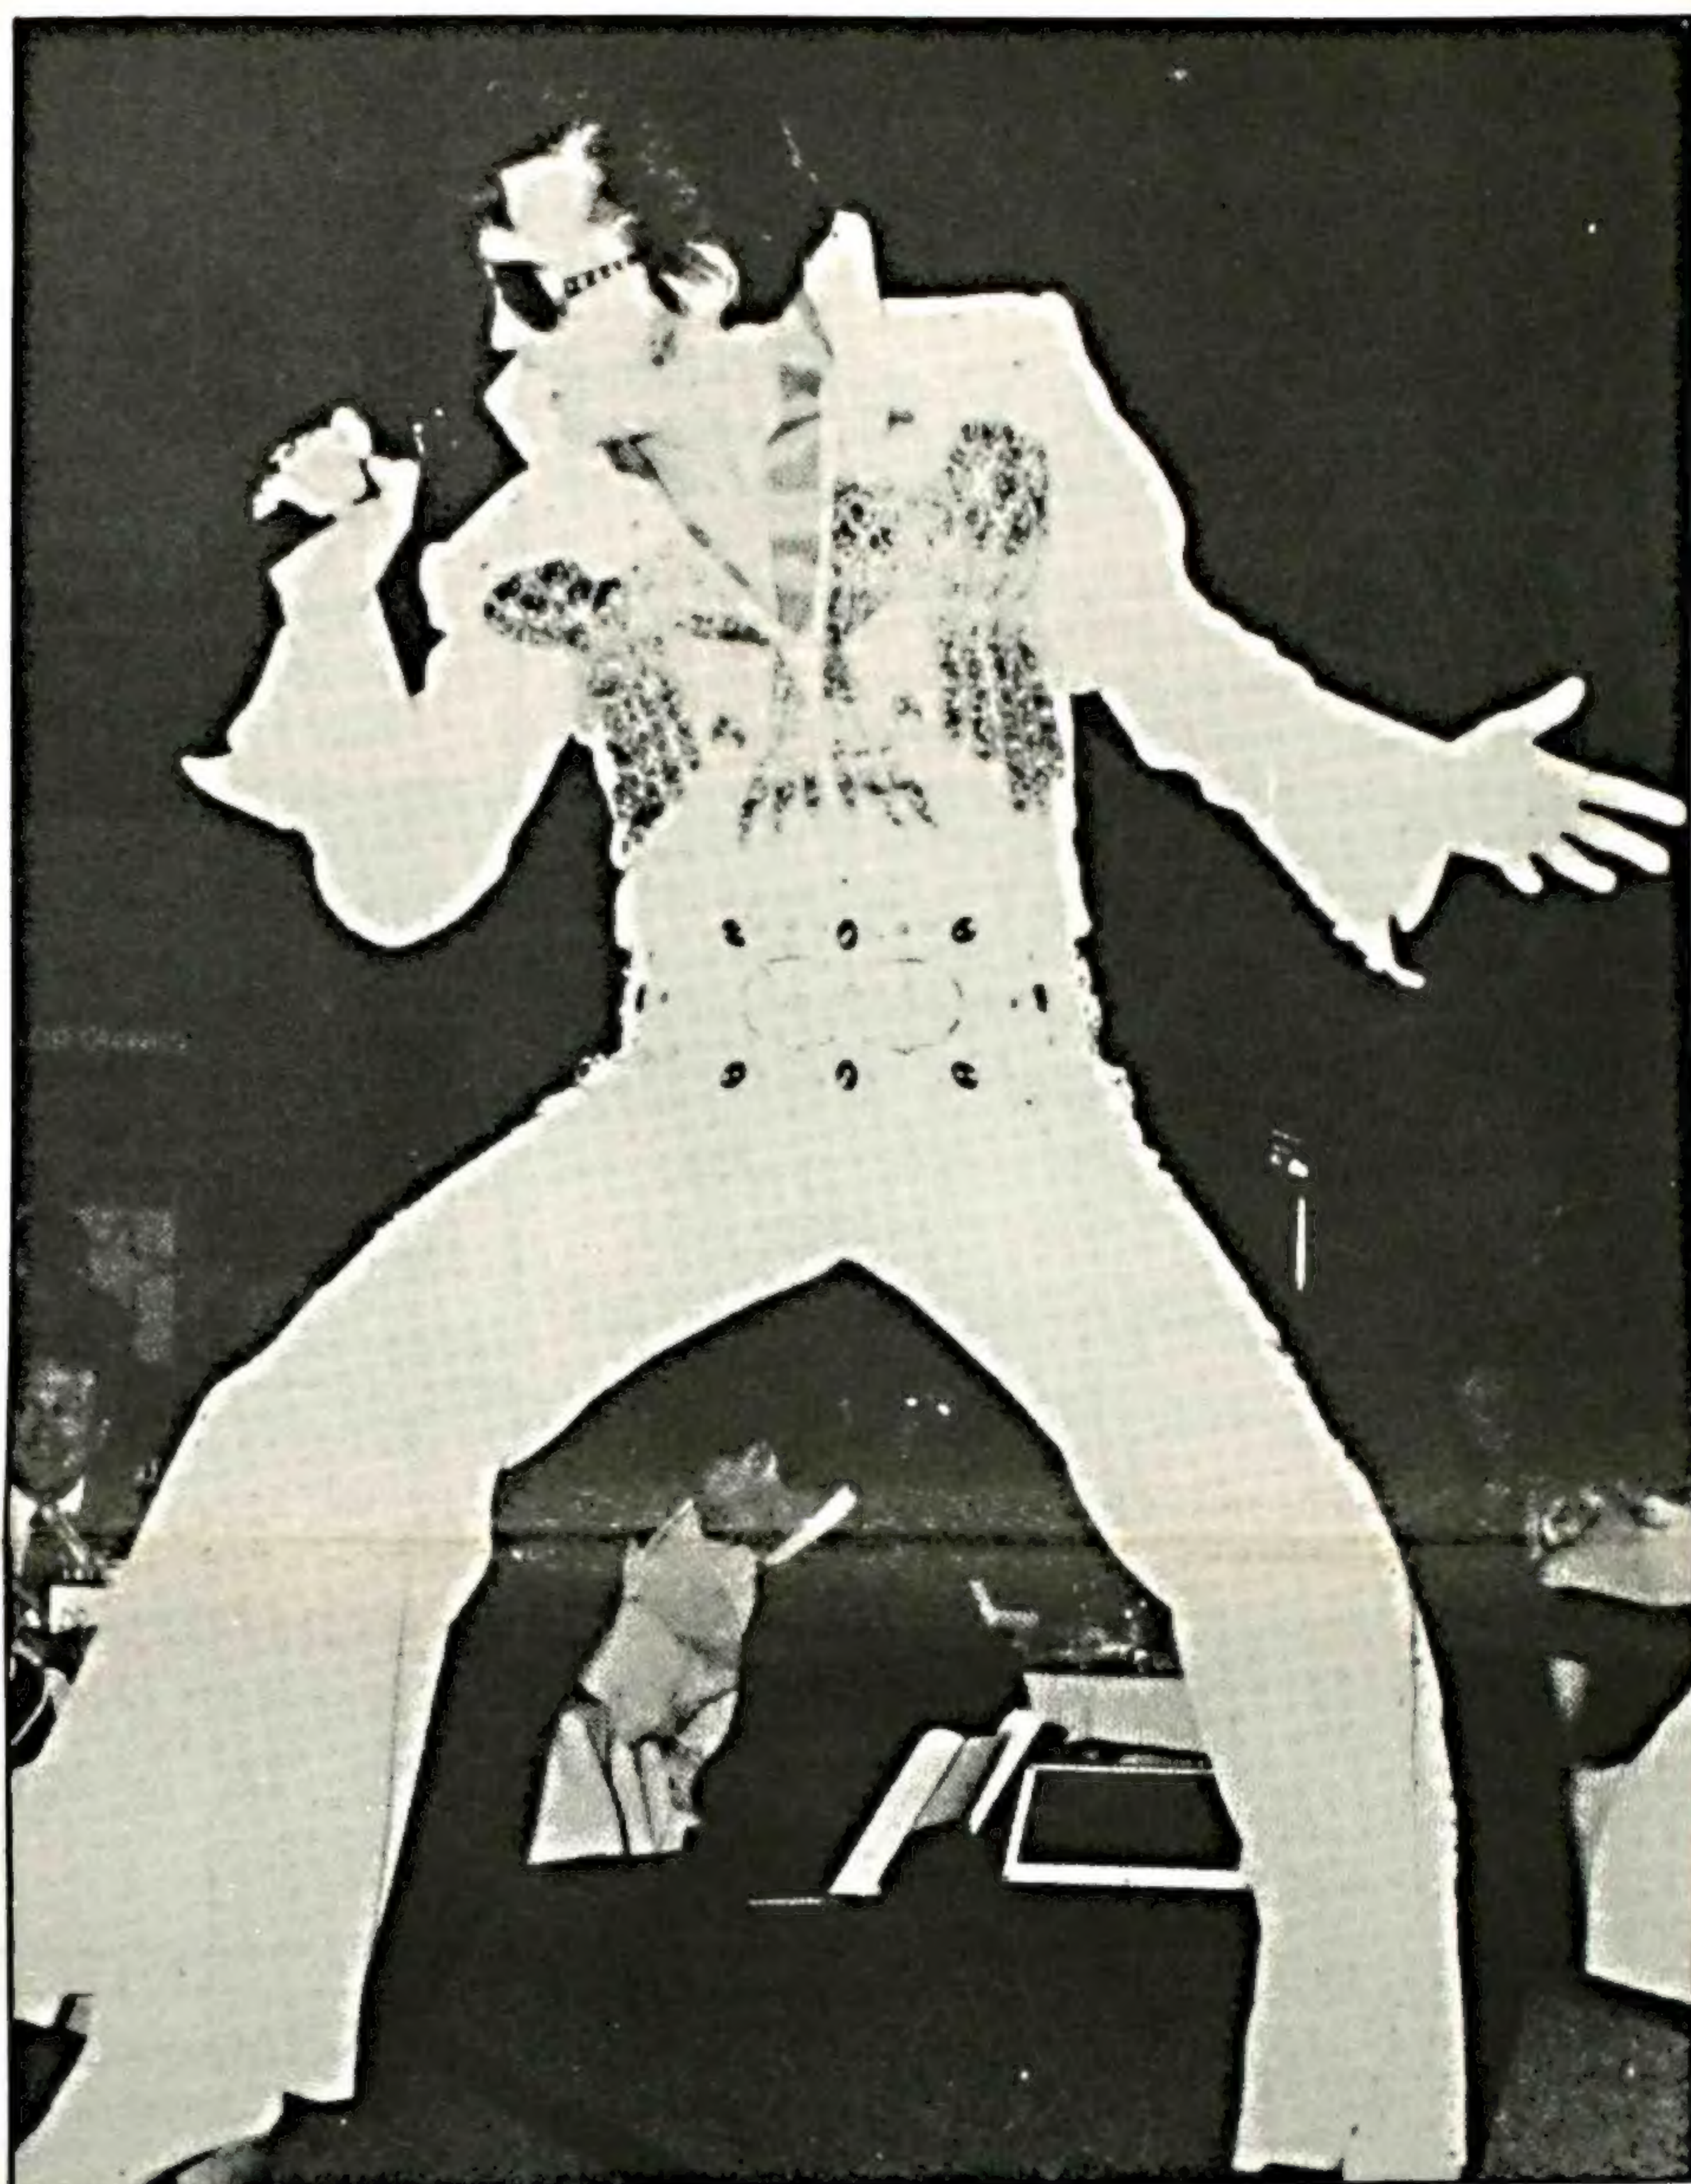

Prostate cancer is the most common tumor and the second leading cause of cancer deaths among American men. Early detection is the key to curing this disease.

On Saturday, September 22, Grossmont Hospital will conduct a free prostate cancer screening from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. in Grossmont Hospital's Foundation board room.

The screening is a safe procedure and will be conducted by male physicians.

In addition to the prostate cancer screening, information on colon cancer will be available, along with a free colon self-screening test.

To schedule a check-in time, or for more information, call Grossmont Hospital staff at 465-2582.

Eddie Powers, a popular Elvis impersonator, is one of the featured entertainers for the Classic Car Contest and Chili Challenge to benefit the Child Abuse Prevention Foundation on September 8.

Winning season predicted for Helix

For veteran Helix football coach, Jim Arnaiz, 1990 has the look of a season to savor.

As defending Grossmont 3-A champion, Arnaiz has eight of his starting 11 defensive starters returning, plus what appears to be more than enough offensive firepower to top the league again.

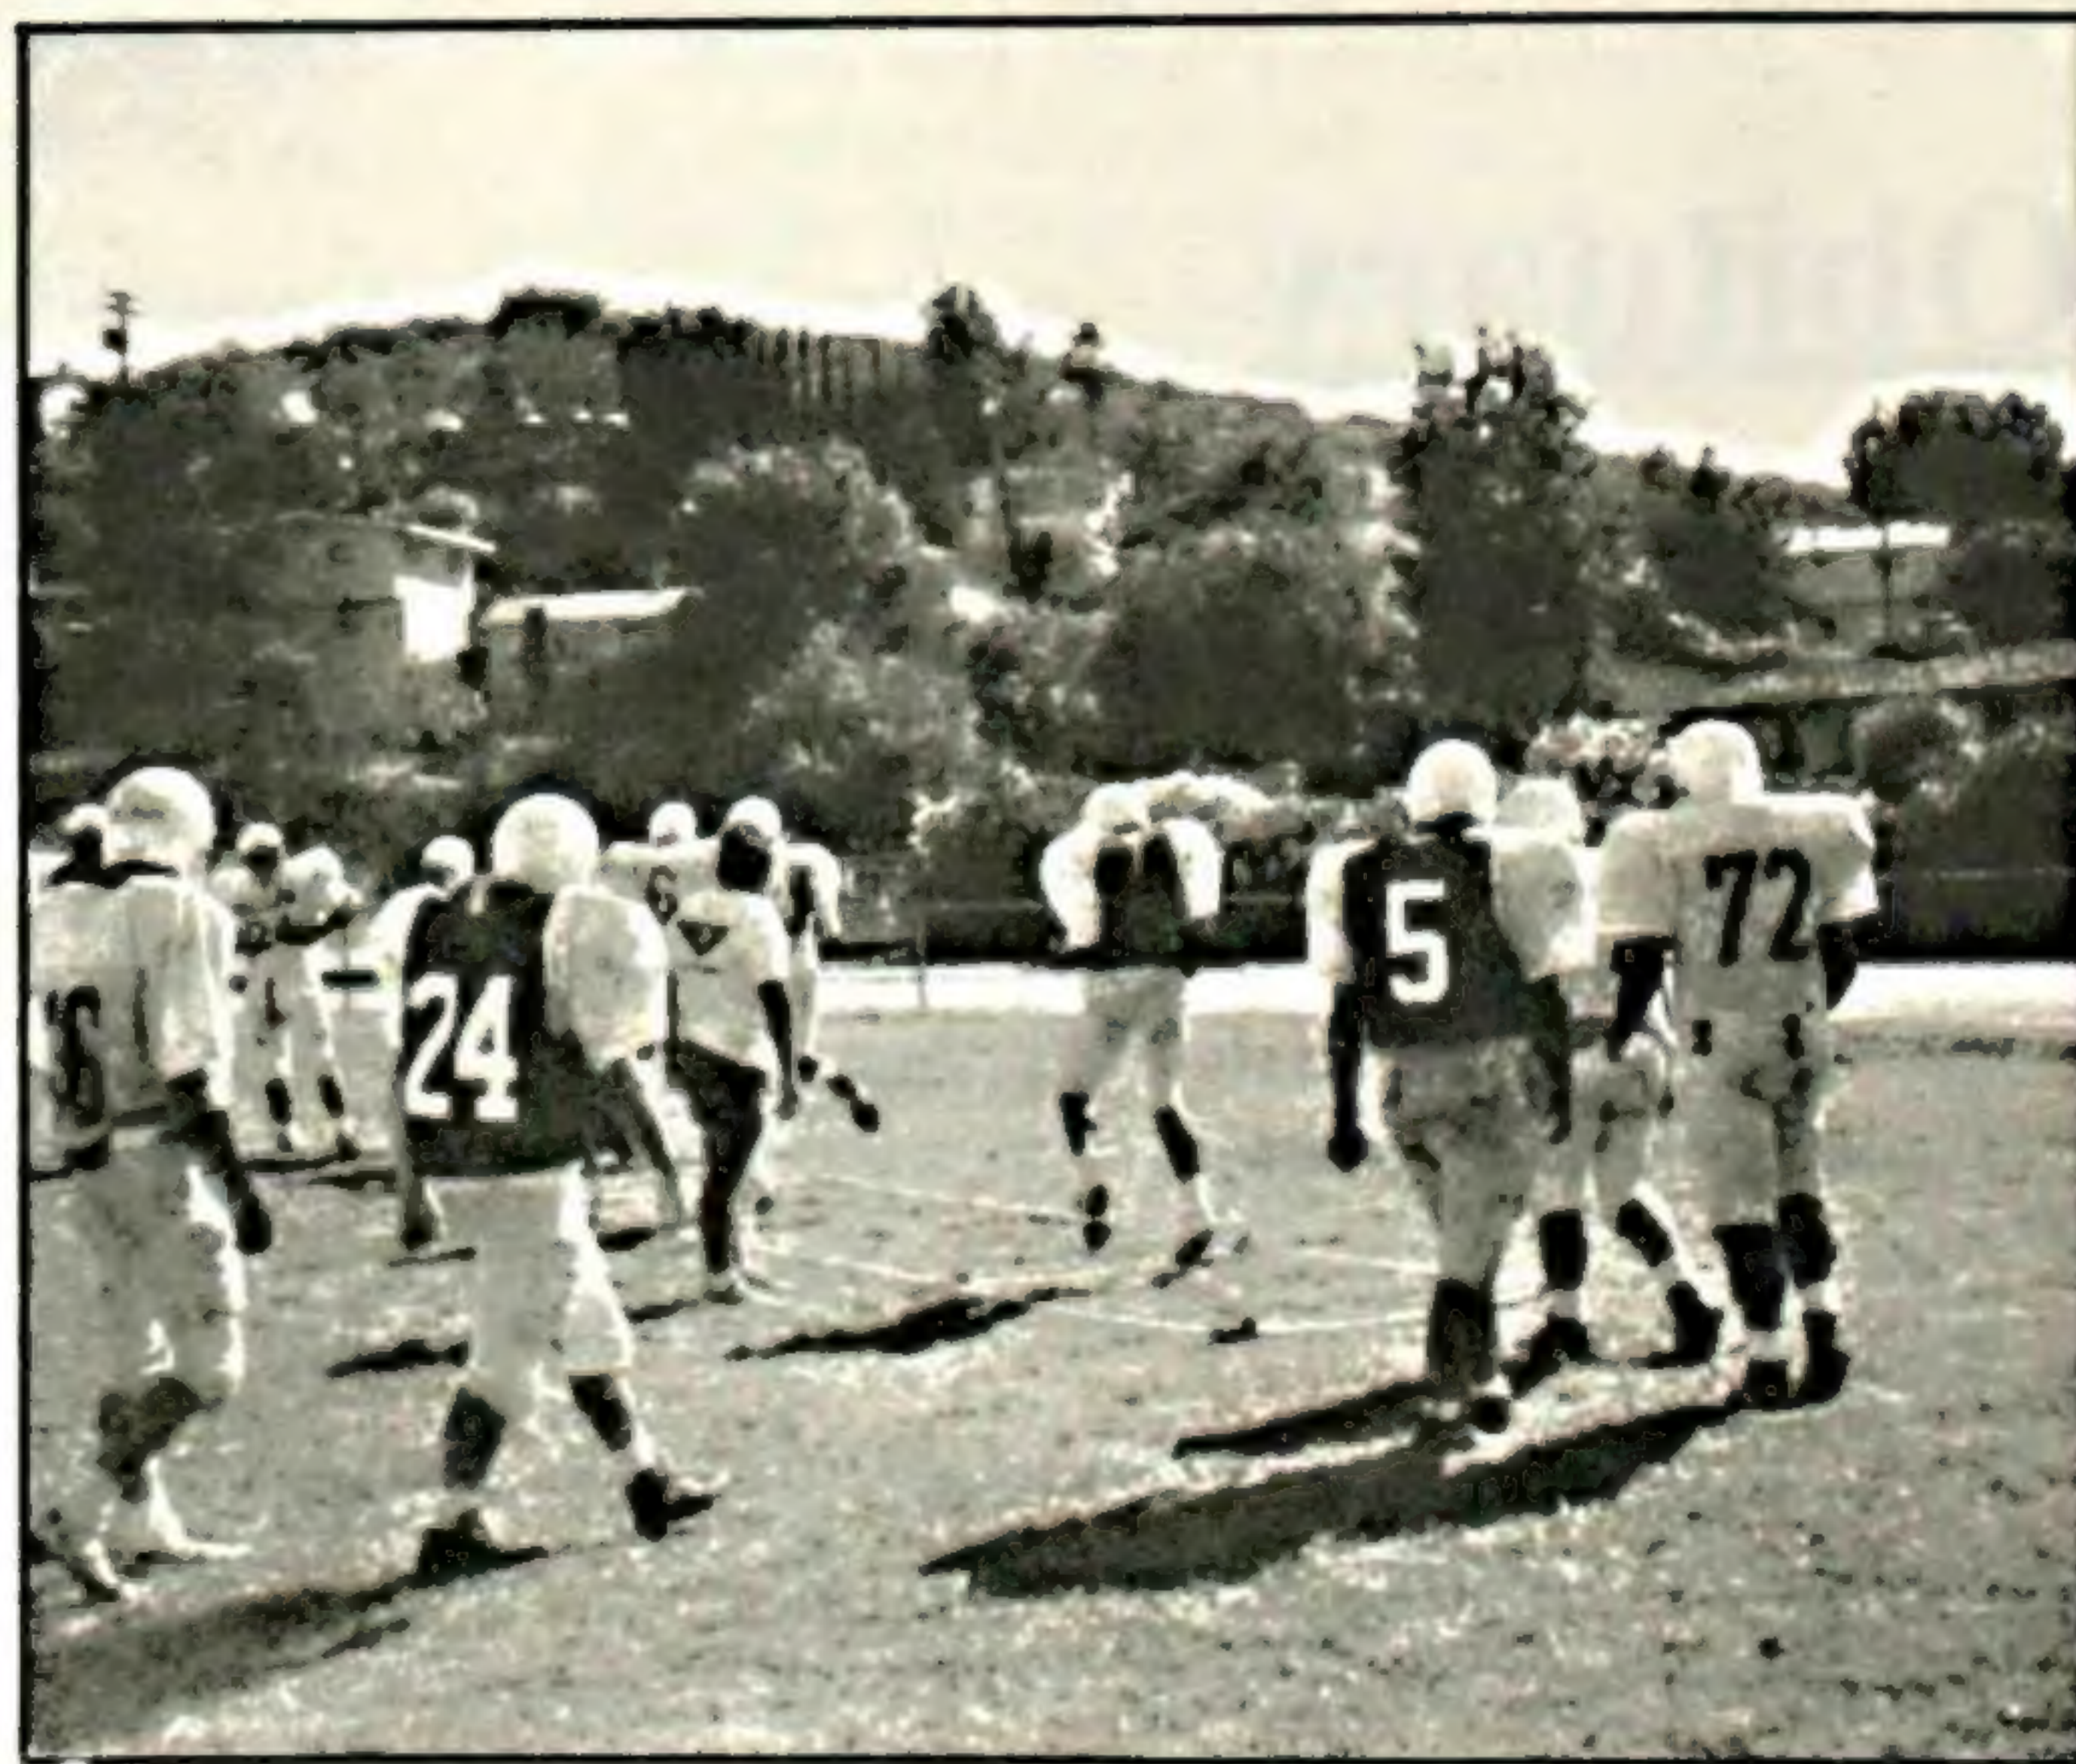

The defensive line again should be anchored by 6-foot, 3-inch, 245 pound, To'osavali Ulatu, and linebacker Gary Walton.

Also figuring to make the defense close to impregnable are such returnees as Brandon Saunders, Vince Sanchez, Eric Stavola and Tracy Odom.

The latter is being pushed in early practice by Ed Messina.

Although losing last year's quarterback, Rob Ippolito, Coach Arnaiz finds Torrey Pines transfer Greg Wilber a solid replacement.

Running backs Jarrett Parr, who ran for 1200 yards in 1989, and Kenny Carter, will operate behind a hefty offensive line.

The heavyweights include 250-pound Adam Norber, Brian McCaskill and Andreal Climon.

Fleet receivers Chris Bolin,

Arvis Hardison and Adam Bright will haul down the long ones.

The Highlanders were 7-3-1 (4-0 league) in 1989, and figure to do as well or better this season.

Lemon Grove Senior Center fall activities

• The Lemon Grove Senior Center is sponsoring their monthly senior dance on Wednesday, September 19, from 1:30 p.m. to 4 p.m. Paul Collins and the Swingtones will be playing the music by which to swing and sway.

Refreshments will be provided. Admission is $1.25 and there will be a raffle at intermission.

The Lemon Grove Senior Center is located at 8235 Mt. Vernon St., three blocks east of Skyline Drive.

• The Lemon Grove Senior Center will present the play, "Harvey," at the Lemon Grove Middle School on October 5, 6, 12, and 13.

Performances will begin at 8 p.m. at the school located on School Lane.

Tickets are $2.50 each, ad will be available at the Senior Center, or at the door.

Proceeds will benefit the programs offered at the Senior Center.

For more information, call the Center at 463-8851.

• The popular classes, "Exercise for Senior Adults," "Effective Living for Seniors," and "Arts and Crafts," will again be offered this Fall at the Lemon Grove Senior Center, beginning the week of September 10.

Sponsored by the Grossmont Adult School, these classes are free to seniors.

The exercise class will be taught by Peggy Palm on Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, from 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m.

The two other courses will be taught by Donna Pasanen, with "Effective Living" being offered on Thursdays from 10:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., and Arts and Crafts on Tuesdays from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m.

• "Wake Up Your Memory" will be the initial offering of the Vital Living Skills courses offered at the Lemon Grove Senior Center this fall.

This nine-week session will cover memory myths, explain why you forget and where your memory went, as well as teach ways to expand your memory.

The Vital Living Skills program is sponsored by Grossmont Adult School, and is free to seniors.

This class will be held Wednesday afternoons from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., beginning September 12.

Judy Cullins, M.A., will teach this class.

• The first certified Caregivers class offered in San Diego County will be offered at the Lemon Grove Senior Center, beginning September 12.

Held from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m., this course is offered through the Grossmont Adult School, and is aimed at those interested in becoming a senior caregiver, or for those who are already caring for a senior.

Topics to be covered in class include caregiver and care-receiver problems, and focus on nutrition as well as legal and financial problems.

Students enrolled in this 18-week class may be eligible for Title-V funding. Eligibility will be discussed at the first class meeting, and each student's eligibility will be individually evaluated.

Cost of the class is $12, with a $3.50 required text.

This class is approved by the Area Agency on Aging, and the Board of Registered Nurses.

The course will be taught by Dona Pasanen.

For more information on this or any other class, please call the Center at 463-8851.

Obituary

Max Elkins

Max Elkins, 79, died August 26 at his home in Lemon Grove. Born in Stringtown, Oklahoma, he lived in San Diego County for 65 years.

Elkins was a produce dealer from 1935-1975. He owned Elkins Produce in San Diego (1935-1950), Lemon Grove Produce Distributors (wholesale) and Lemon Grove Rand Market (retail) from 1955-1970. At the same time, he worked a night shift at Rohr Industries for 16 years as a scheduler from 1956-1972.

On August 21, 1990 he and his wife Ruby celebrated their 53rd wedding anniversary.

Elkins is survived by his wife, Ruby L. Elkins; three sons, John Elkins of Seattle, Washington, Bill Elkins of Lemon Grove and Denver Elkins of Cardiff, California; eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Services and interment were held on Thursday, August 30 at Greenwood Memorial Park. Conrad Lemon Grove Mortuary were in charge of arrangements and services.

The family suggests that memorial gifts in Max Elkins' name be given to T.L.C. in care of College Avenue Baptist Church in San Diego.

Commentary

by Paul Treske

Lost in the avalanche of stories concerning the hostages in Iraq (seven pages in the Monday edition of the Times) is the fact that America's school children will be returning to their classes next week.

Of course, that's no big news, really, because they always return to their classes at this time of year.

But if we are to believe studies and statistics from authoritative "think tanks" regarding the future employment opportunities for young adults, what happens this year, next year and the year after will be the key determinant for some students of the kind of lifestyle they will enjoy during their lifetimes.

One actually does not need the "think tanks," common logic tells us that good employment opportunities for those without education or skills are minimal.

The time when an individual who had not graduated from high school and could barely read could get a high-paying job on the assembly line is past.

Even a high school diploma is no longer a leg up on decent employment.

School time

Today's young labor force is quickly dividing into the "haves and the have nots." Those with good education or training and strong work habits are obtaining jobs with growth potential. Those with minimal education or training are working in our fast food outlets, car washes, or other lower-paying service positions. The latter jobs are honorable and those who fill them are often hard-working, but they usually afford little opportunity for advancement.

A lifetime is a long stretch and to be doomed throughout a lifetime to minimal wage and opportunity is a tragic fate.

Next June, as school lets out, there will be those who pushed themselves to learn and who aimed at a more productive future.

There will also be those who drifted through their classes, worrying more about their cars or the location of the next Madonna concert. As an employer, whom would you hire?

From Where I Sit

by Frank Andrews

A few years ago my wife, Willie Marie, and I took a long awaited month's vacation over in Europe. Willie's roots stem from Ireland and one of my many different ancestors came from Scotland, so we spent most of the month touring the British Isles.

The 11-hour flight over to Gatwick Airport, just outside London, was spent getting acquainted with our fellow passenger, a little old lady of Irish extraction. With each complimentary drink, this miniature Phyllis Diller ticked our funny bones with Irish humor.

I have to share one story with you. Try to imagine it told with a thick Irish accent:

Years ago, many of the Old World's young were migrating to America, the "Promised Land," to fulfill their dreams of a life. A young Irish lad named Shawn Cassidy, from County Cork, had relatives in the States and was eager to go there.

The long-awaited day of departure finally came, so many of the villagers turned out to wish Shawn a fond farewell. Old Maggie Dunne walked all the way around Galway Bay to say good-bye and send a message to her own son who had left for the States a couple of years before.

As Shawn bent over to kiss the old lady's cheek, she grabbed him around his brawny shoulders and whispered in his ear.

"Please look up my son in America and tell him to write to his poor old mother. I haven't heard from him since he left.

"Tell me where he lives and I will try to find him."

"He lives in a little white house in the county of

The Little White House

Pennsylvania."

With that, Shawn hopped on the bus to Dublin and began the long ocean voyage over the rough Atlantic Ocean. He soon knew why the ship was called a "Tramp Steamer" because his stomach was on the bum during the entire crossing.

Soon after he arrived in the big city of New York, he got a job with the New York City Police.

He was well-qualified to become a policeman. Shawn had a big body with a small I.Q.--just what they wanted.

He always had old Maggie Dunne's request in the back of his mind, so as soon as he had saved up enough time and money, he took off for Pennsylvania. He boarded the Greyhound early one morning and instructed the driver to let him off as soon as they hit Pennsylvania.

When the driver hollered, "Pennsylvania Line," Shawn jumped off. He walked up to the first filling station and asked, "Where is the Little White House?"

Shawn walked around to the back and down the pathway to the very tiny "Little White House" with a half-moon cut above the door. He knocked loudly and asked, "Are you Dunne?"

A very disturbed voice came from inside. "Yeah, I'm done and I'll be out in a minute."

With that, Shawn hollered back in an authoritative tone, "All I have to say to you is, why in the heck don't you write to your poor old mother?"

Sports Commentary

by John E. Wirges

Who's gonna play?

The long-suffering and ever-faithful San Diego Charger fans are primed and ready for deliverance from the underworld of lost causes and unfulfilled promises to the joyful abode known only by Super Bowl contenders.

Loyalty to flag, country and the American way demands that local folks support the doings of the hometown team.

They don't bet that way in Las Vegas, but they do on Main Street, USA. San Diego fans would do well to skip the Main Street approach and bet Vegas style.

On the surface, the 1990 Chargers appear to be a better team than the crews that drew our hope and raised our expectations the last several seasons.

In fact, the Bobby Beathard/Dan Henning entry could be a much better club than the "last in the west," 6-10 team that soiled San Diego livery last year.

But when you've gone seven straight years without a winning record, a slight improvement doesn't count much. The only thing that has been major league about the Chargers since Don Coryell was so unceremoniously shown the door has been ticket prices.

The Chargers pre-season performances must be keeping Coach Henning awake into the wee hours of the morning.

Auditions that they were, hard-nosed play against quality teams this exhibition season gave every promise of great deeds to be expected by a vastly-improved, highly-skillful and disciplined San Diego gridiron battle force.

The exhibition season proved to be one game more than enough to show the Charger promise of excellence is unfounded.

Up-front defense is supposed to be the Chargers strength, what with three of the last five first-round draft selections buttressing the defensive corps.

Players like Leslie Claudis O'Neal ('86), Burton Grossman ('89), and Tiana "Junior" Seau ('90) added to a veteran crew headed by the likes of Billy Ray Smith, Lee Williams, Joe Phillips and Gary Plummer should be able to stop a runaway freight train.

The "New" Chargers won their first three games in solid fashion. So what happened in the exhibition graduation exercise? The hated "carpetbagging" Raiders logged 527 total yards to all but run San Diego right out of the Raiders' Los Angeles playground.

Al Coupee, former San Diego telecaster and a veteran of NFL play in post WWII years, maintains that any NFL team that counts on an untried rookie to turn a losing club into a winner is wasting a dream. Seau proved his point.

Seau, disappointed in being forced to sign a contract for a mere $4.5 million over the next five years, blew his only chance to learn something of the pro game this exhibition season.

Acting like a first-class boob, he showed his rookie ways on his second play by throwing a punch at Raiders guard Steve Wisniewski right in front of an official and got kicked out of the game.

The rest of the defense acted as if they were thrown out of the game with Seau. The offense acted as if they missed the game bus.

That is Henning's dilemma.

The Chargers open at Dallas on Sunday and Henning can't wait to see which team will show up? If his 3-0 crew plays, it could be a sign of a joyful season. But it could be Seau-grapes it they misplay the final exhibition game way.

Gertrude Stein play to open at The Grove

Octad-One Productions will present the play, "Gertrude Stein and a Companion," at The Grove Playhouse at the Market Place at the Grove.

The play is an interesting character study based on the relationship between the expatriate writer and her companion, Alice B. Toklas. Pat Milke stars as Stein and Betty Matthews plays the other lead as Alice B. Toklas.

Opening September 7th, the play will run with performances every Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 p.m. through October 7.

There will also be matinee performances on Sundays at 2 p.m.

For reservations and further information, call 466-3987.

Betty Matthews as Alice B Toklas and Pat Milke as Gertrude Stein.

Civic Youth Orchestra auditioning

The Civic Youth Orchestra will hold fall semester auditions for the eight youth ensembles which it sponsors.

The Orchestra provides training for elementary through college-age music students, and is a non-profit organization supported by private donations.

Students who wish to audition must have a minimum of one year of private or school instrumental music instruction.

Orchestras include advanced level, symphonic, full orchestras and intermediate and beginning level string ensembles in central San Diego and North County areas.

San Diego area ensemble auditions will be held Tuesday evenings, September 18 and 25.

Audition appointments are also scheduled throughout the school year for new students.

Two additional ensembles are offered in the central San Diego area: Wind Ensemble (an intermediate level wind and brass group) and Flute Choir (a more advanced level flute ensemble)

For more information and audition appointments, call 234-7227.

ECPAC World of Music series begins with the Symphony Brass

The East County Performing Arts Center will kick off its 1990-91 World of Music series with the Symphony Brass on September 17 and 18.

The Symphony Brass, a 12-piece brass section will be conducted by Ethan James Dulsky.

Individual members of the Brass have received countless honors, including Heather Buchman's trombone and the trumpet of Julliard-trained Mark Bedall.

The series will present four classical music concerts, running throughout the fall.

Selections the Brass will play range from Bach to Benedetto Marcello. Show time is 8:30 p.m. Call 440-2277 for information and tickets.

PUBLIC NOTICES

DELINQUENT TAX LIST

PURSUANT TO SECTION 3381 THROUGH 3385, REVENUE AND TAXATION CODE, THE PUBLISHED DELINQUENT LIST IN AND FOR THE COUNTY OF SAN DIEGO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA, HAS BEEN DIVIDED AND DISTRIBUTED TO VARIOUS NEWSPAPERS OF GENERAL CIRCULATION PUBLISHED IN SAID COUNTY, FOR PUBLICATION OF A PORTION THEREOF IN EACH OF SAID NEWSPAPERS.

NOTICE
PUBLISHED DELINQUENT LIST

I, PAUL BOLAND, Treasurer-Tax Collector of the County of San Diego, State of California, hereby certify as follows:

That notice is hereby given that because of non-payment of the total amount due for taxes, assessments and other charges levied in the year 1988 for the Fiscal Year 1988-89 shown in dollars and cents opposite the description of the property contained in the list below, the real properties on which such amounts were a lien were, by operation of law, in my office at the County of San Diego, declared to be in default at 5 o'clock p.m., on the 30th day of June, 1989.

Tax-defaulted real property may be redeemed by payment of all unpaid taxes and assessments together with such additional penalties and fees as prescribed by law, or may be redeemed under an installment plan of redemption.

All information concerning redemption, or the initiation of an installment plan of redemption, of tax-defaulted property will, upon request, be furnished by PAUL BOLAND, Treasurer-Tax Collector, Room 162, 1600 Pacific Highway, County Administration Center, San Diego, CA 92101.

I certify under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

PAUL BOLAND
Treasurer-Tax Collector of San Diego County

Executed at San Diego, County of San Diego, on July 31, 1990

PARCEL NUMBERING SYSTEM EXPLANATION

The Assessor's parcel number when used to describe property in this list, refers to the Assessor's map book, the map page or block number in the book and the individual parcel number on the map page or within the block. A parcel number as for example, '448-692-12' would mean Book 448 of the Assessor's Maps, Block 692 (Page 69, Block 2) and Parcel 12 within that block. A sub-identification number of 01 or 02, etc., to a parcel, as for example, '448-692-12-01' would indicate multiple ownership or condominium. The maps referred to are available for inspection in the office of the Assessor.

All property hereinafter described is in the County of San Diego, State of California, all townships being south of the San Bernardino Base, and all ranges being either east or west of the San Bernardino meridian.

SITUS ADDRESS EXPLANATION

The street address of the property, if any is included as shown on the County Assessment Roll for each parcel declared to be in default. Parcels without an assigned street number are shown as street number 00000.

Lemon Grove Library plans book round-up

A book round-up is in progress for the October 13 book sale at the library scheduled by the Friends of the Lemon Grove Library.

Now that the children are back in school and fall routines are in place, those paperbacks from summer reading can be recycled, enjoyed by others and raise money for library uses.

Donations of all kinds of books will be welcomed at the library, located at 8073 Broadway.

The Friends ask that donations be bagged or boxed and marked, "For Friends of the Lemon Grove Library."

The Friends report completion of their long-range project of providing covering for the wall of windows which faces the sun. This covering keeps the temperature lower in the lounge/reading area, making it more user-friendly. This summer, 545 children participated in the 11 special programs presented. In the reading program alone, 312 were enrolled.

The Friends provided 167 hardbound books as awards for children who read ten books or more during the summer.

Also, the Friends provided a juggler/storyteller, as well as helium-filled balloons for a special program.

Children's Programs at the Lemon Grove Library

Preschool storytimes are Thursdays at 10:30 a.m.

September 13--Fall Foliage
September 20--Puppet Show
September 27--Indian Tales

The school-age program for September is on the 20th at 3:30 p.m. featuring David Whitehorse, Brule Sioux Storyteller.

Volunteer poll staffers needed

The Registrar of Voters is looking for help in staffing the more than 1600 polls that will be open on Tuesday, November 6 in the gubernatorial election.

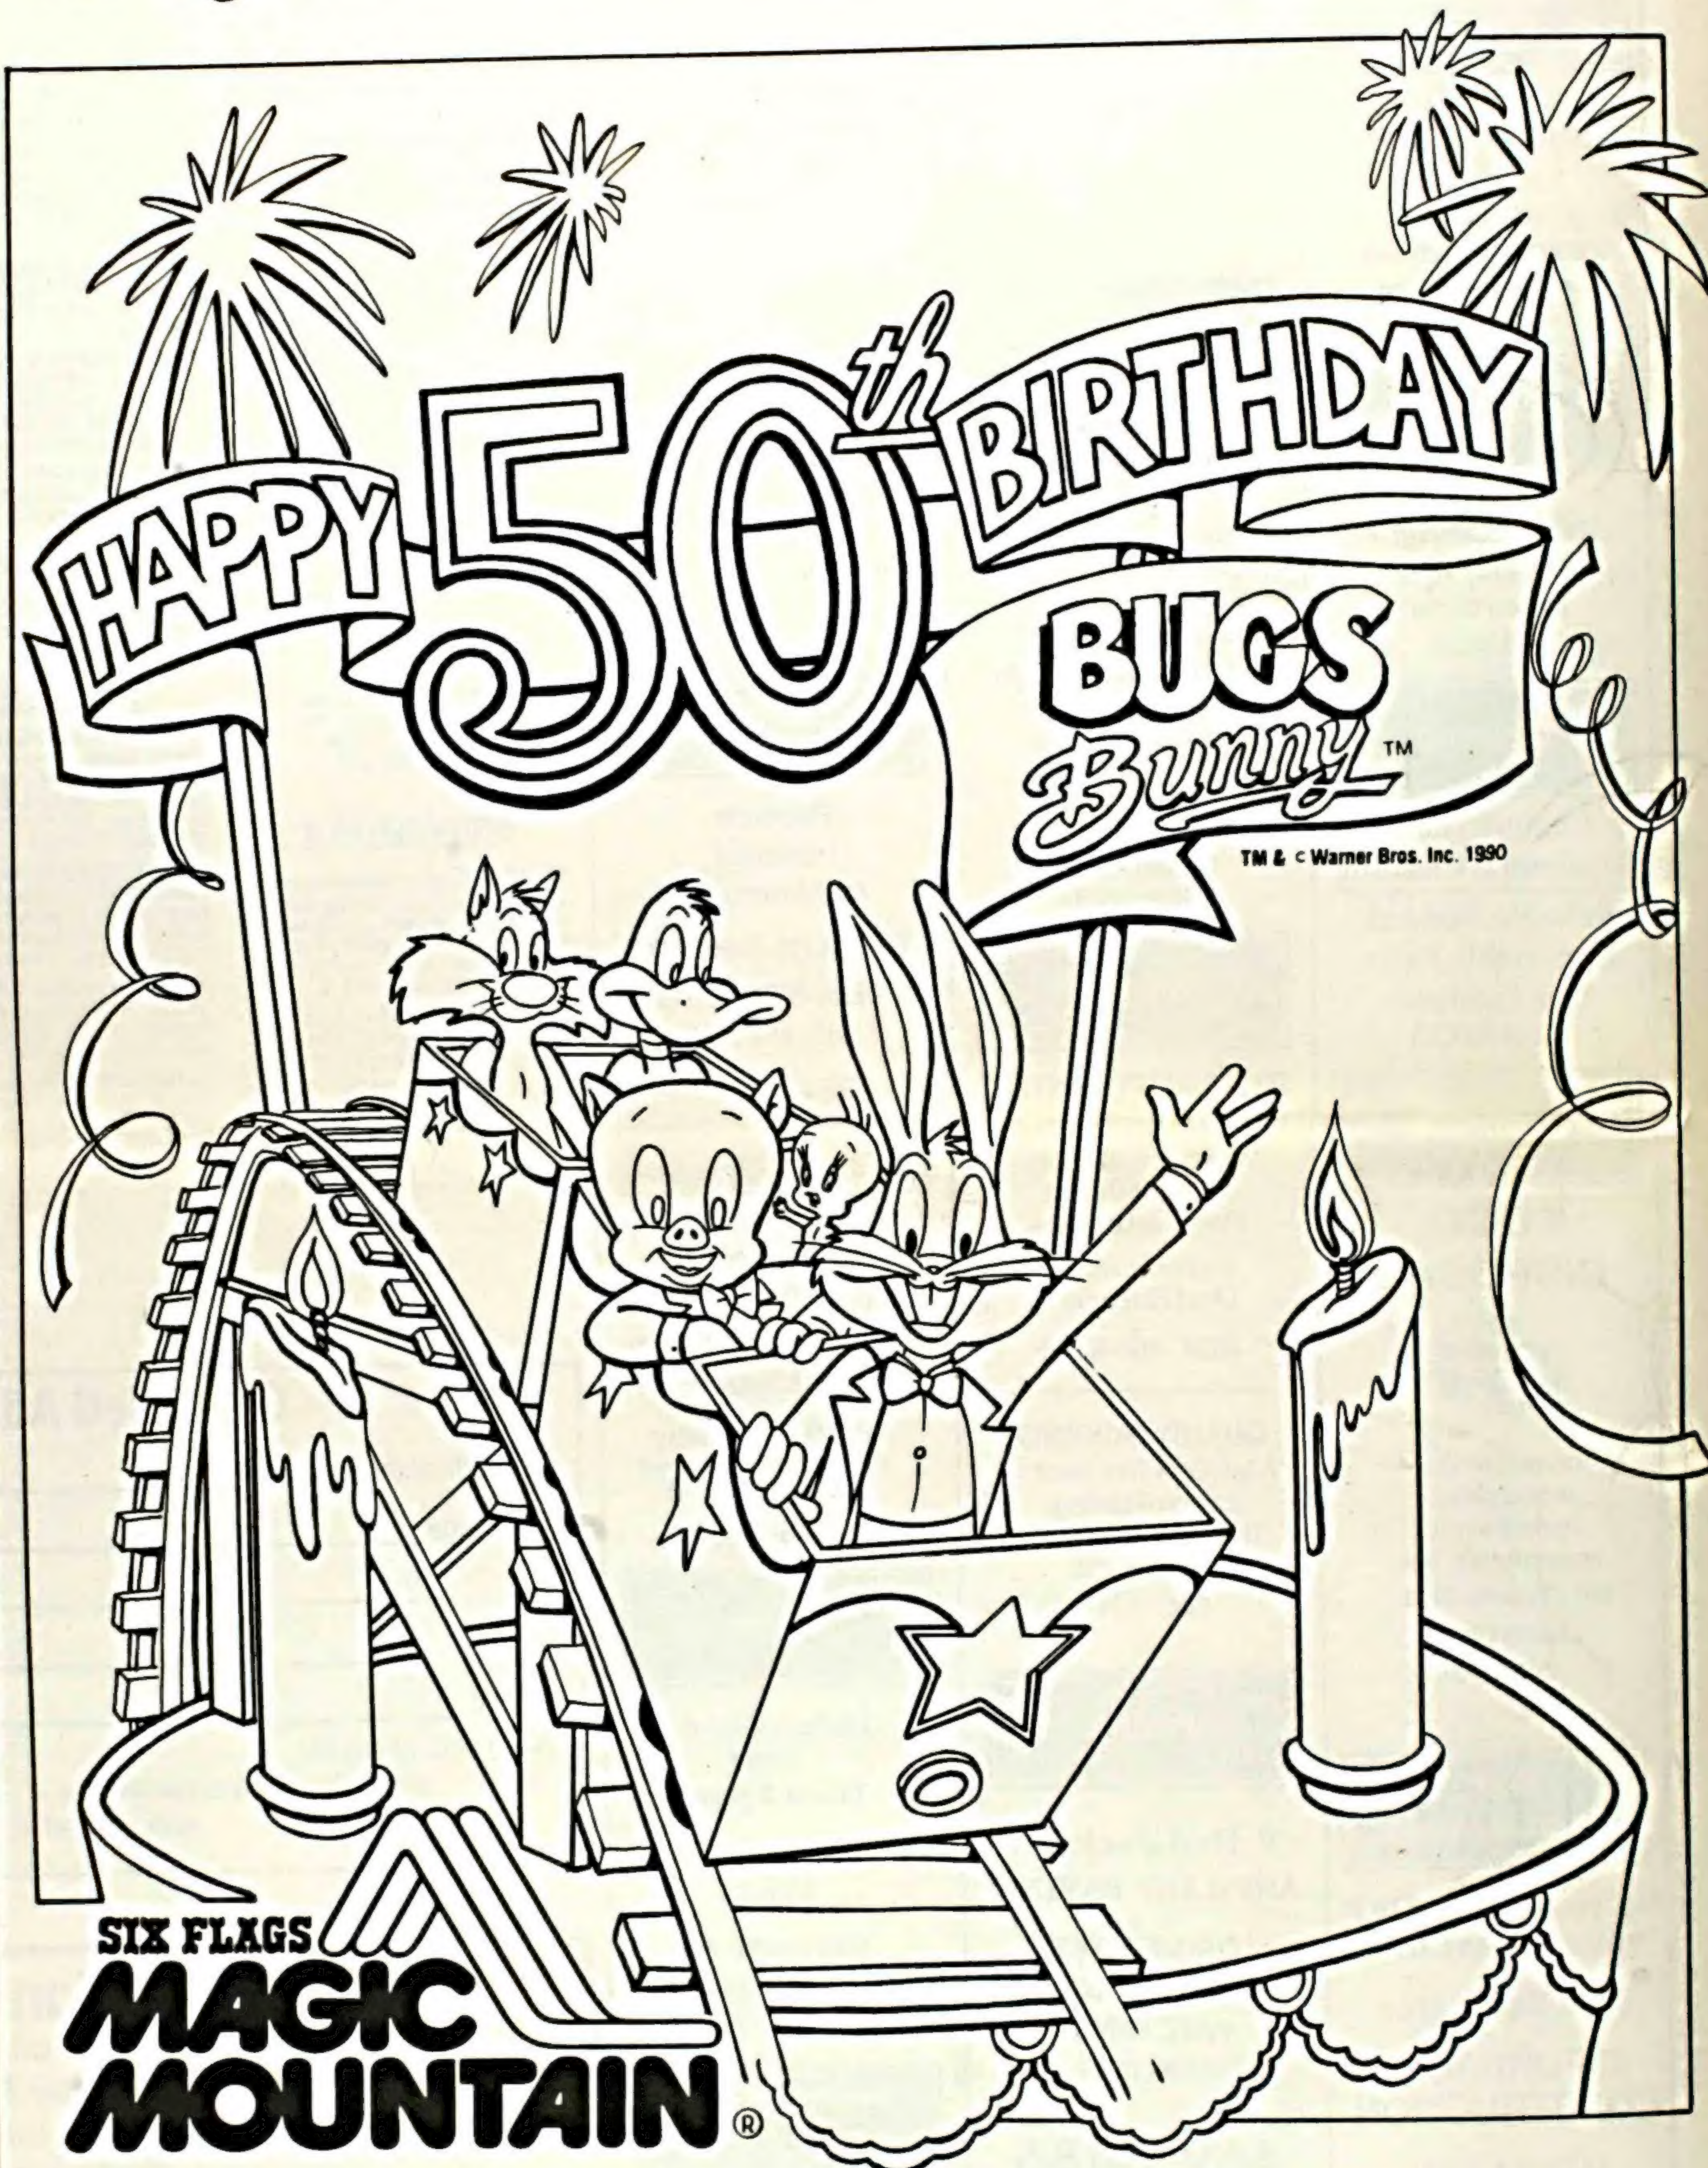

Over 1750 citizens are needed to fill these positions. Poll workers receive between $35 and $50 for their day of service, depending upon the job assigned at the voting location.

The real compensation is the satisfaction of performing a valuable community service, according to Registrar of Voters, Conny McCormack Polls will be open for voting between the hours of 7 a.m. and 8 p.m. Workers are expected to serve the entire voting day. For details, contact the Registrar of Voters office, Monday - Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., at 694-3453.
